Stanton, Jr., asking that president of board appoint a committee to consider annexation of this territory to Los Angeles. The president appointed a committee to act in conjunction with other committees.

Manager of lighting department reported he had seen Mr. Brand on the buying of the Glendale Light and Power Co., either in part or the whole of it. Mr. Lynch suggested that city of Glendale lease of Mr. Brand that part of Glendale Light and Power Co. in West Glendale. Manager of lighting department instructed to see Mr. Brand and make proposition about leasing system in newly annexed territory.

At 8 o'clock the meeting to protest against the light for illumination purposes was held. Mr. Woodbury and Mr. Hunchberger addressed the board. Trustee Coker presented a resolution in reference to lights making them 150 feet apart instead of 100 feet apart. Resolution adopted. On motion, hearing on lights was adjourned for two weeks.

Mr. Gilhouse addressed board in reference to motor cycle races for Thanksgiving day afternoon. Race to be about two miles. Three different races, to take about three hours. Trustee Coker made a motion that request be granted and that proper protection be given on street. Motion carried.

Mr. Woodbury stated that Supervisor Pridham wanted board of trustees to make four voting precincts at once and to let supervisors know where precincts were wanted. A recess was taken for fifteen minutes and the proposition seemed favorable to divide city at Louise street and at Fourth street. On motion dividing city at these points was carried.

The owner of wagon at corner of Fourth and Brand was given another week's time to move off of corner.

The improvement of Verdugo road was brought up and city engineer made an estimate of $1.72 per lineal foot each side of Verdugo road. The map of Verdugo road was adopted and also intention of improvement.

A number of demands were read and warrants ordered drawn.

Under the head of new business Trustee Watson brought up the question of putting in larger water mains in West Glendale to increase water pressure in that section. Manager of lighting department instructed to confer with Mr. Rodgers of the Consolidated Water Co.

On motion, fire and public safety committee instructed to find out about more fire protection for Glendale. Jewel City Press.

NARROW ESCAPE.

As Mr. W. K. Crawford was driving west on Fifth street Monday morning his automobile collided with Steve Beebe, who was riding his bicycle to school. The wheel was reduced to splinters. The boy was picked up and carried to the nearest house, where Drs. Bryant and Murray were called to attend him. After dressing the lacerations on the upper eye lid, Mr. Crawford and Dr. Bryant drove him to the Sisters' Hospital in Los Angeles to have the stitches taken. The boy is now comfortable and no serious injury was done.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

A large audience greeted Dr. Robert J. Burdette at the club last Tuesday afternoon and enjoyed his lecture "Good Medicine." The lecture was preceded by a fine musical program, as follows: Piano solos, "Sunbeam Fairies," composed by Winifred Jones at the age of six and dedicated to Dr. Burdette. "Gipsy Rondo," Hayden. Miss Winifred Jones, Vocal solos, (a) "April," Thomas; (b) "May," Harvey; (c) "June," Dudley Buck, Mrs. W. H. West. Violin solo, "Legende," Wienowski, Julius Kranz.

Mrs. West sang at the close of the lecture, "Protestation," Morris, with violin obligato by Julius Kranz. Mrs. Mattison Jones accompanied.

This was the fourth anniversary of Charter Day. The club was organized in 1904 with a membership of twenty-four and was incorporated in 1908. The club at present, including the thirty-two new members, received since the beginning of the club year numbers 122. Dr. Jessie Russell and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett were appointed as delegates from the Tuesday Afternoon Club to the Los Angeles district convention of the California Federation of Women's Clubs which meets in Ventura Nov. 16-17-18. At the business session of the club Mrs. P. S. McNutt offered the following resolutions which were heartily endorsed by the club: Resolved, That the Tuesday Afternoon Club co-operate with the Glendale Parent-Teacher Association in the formation of a club for the study of civics government. The next meeting, Nov. 28, will be at 8 p. m. in the Country Club house. The meeting is held in the evening that the husbands of the members may be the guests of the club. While this is not an open meeting, each member is privileged to bring one guest. The drama "Old Maid's Convention" will be given, and refreshments served.

SIXTH STREET PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Sixth Street School held their regular monthly meeting on Friday afternoon. An unusually large attendance was present. During the regular business session announcement was made of the Federation meeting to be held November 25th in the high school auditorium. At this meeting a splendid musical program will be rendered and an address given by a prominent speaker. Also an announcement was made of the juvenile dancing class being organized which will meet for the first time on November 22nd in the K. of P. hall. Instruction will be given by Professor Henry J. Kramer of Los Angeles. Mrs. Frank Hester, chairman of the lecture committee, reported that a handsome engraving of the infant Mozart had been purchased. Mrs. Horace Seeley, membership chairman, announced that 26 new members had been received into the organization since the previous meeting. A masterly address was rendered by Mrs. Laird Stabler dealing with the "Rights of the Child" which held the attention and interest of all. The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. L. A. Wood and Mrs. B. C. Beldin, who have planned the afternoon as follows: The mothers will meet and devote the first of the afternoon to serving for the Maternity Hospital. This will be varied with a parliamentary drill and a question box which will be succeeded by a social hour and tea.

Death of Mrs. Mary J. Ragland

Mrs. Mary J. Ragland died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Kirk, 718 W. Fourth St., on Friday morning, Nov. 10th. She had been suffering for years and her death was not unexpected. Three years ago she lay at death's door at the Sanitarium for about four months, but her wonderful vitality carried her through and she survived. She was 74 years old at her death.

Mrs. Ragland was a native of Tennessee, but in her early married life removed to Waco, Texas, for the benefit of her health and spent most of her life there till the loss of her husband, about ten years ago, since which time she has lived with her daughter. She was a Christian and was a member of the Central Christian church of this city.

Mrs. Ragland leaves four children: W. B. Ragland and C. E. Ragland of Waco, Texas; Oscar Ragland of Atlanta, Georgia; and Mrs. W. B. Kirk of Glendale.

THE WEATHER.

A touch of winter in a mild form struck this section when frost formed in the lower portion of the valley Saturday and Sunday nights. Tender foliage was injured. The occurrence was in no way "unusual" for this time of the year. The days continue to be delightful.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The suffrage movement is being advocated in many states and California, always progressive, has done very much to help those who are working for it in other states. In Wisconsin opportunity to study the subject is given to travelers on all trains passing through the state. The Political Equality League has engaged new boys to distribute pamphlets on the subject. Illinois has formulated plans for a serious campaign this fall. Oregon ladies are preparing to wage a most vigorous campaign to carry the state for woman suffrage at the presidential election in 1912.

Professor Grace Howard McCurdy, teacher of Greek in Vassar college, says she believes suffrage will make women more religious.

All of the state W. C. T. U. officers of Colorado have signed a published statement that the stories of injury to the home from equal suffrage are wholly baseless and that "nothing is so feared by corruptionists as the vote and influence of women."

Abraham Lincoln said, "It is a crime to make a counterfeit dollar it is a ten times worse crime to make a counterfeit man."

The saloon which never took a drunken man and made him sober, or a shiftless one and made him provident, or a dishonest one and made him a loving husband and father, yet jauntily essays to reform itself. If you spend your money at the grocery store, you have good provisions on your table; at the shoe store, you have a good pair of shoes to show for it; at the dry goods store, you have good linen in your closet; at the millinery, your wife is a well dressed woman, with a hat you can't see over; but you may spend your money for fifty years over the bar and you will have nothing but a red nose to show for it.

During an investigation of the state reform school for girls of Indiana, some facts were laid bare that the greatest percentage of the girls come from the three cities which have the largest number of breweries: Indianapolis, Terra Haute and Ft. Wayne, and most of these girls have brothers at the boys' reform school. What can it profit a city to gain the whole world of breweries or saloons and lose its own boys and girls. This applies to pool rooms as well, or anything tending to lower the moral and spiritual tone of a community.

Sir Zezzy Strong, Lord Mayor of London, is a total abstainer; some one asked him recently what he would do if offered wine in a foreign city. He replied, "Why, take lemonade, or any sort of mineral water handy. Is it likely that I should break the strict attitude of anti-alcoholism which I have maintained all my life?"

DISTRICT MEETING I. O. O. F. SANTA MONICA.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 21st, Glendale Lodge No. 338 will attend in a body district meeting I. O. O. F., held at Santa Monica. The events of the evening promise to be both instructive and entertaining. The first degree will be conferred by Sea Side Lodge, and one event which promises to be unusually interesting will be the conferring of the cradle of baby lodge, Palma Lodge, with Ingleswood Lodge in charge of the work. The brothers are instructed to come prepared to do justice to a banquet fit for a king.

I. O. O. F. NOTES.

District Deputy Geo. C. Wilson of Sawtelle Lodge and W. M. Palmer of Sea Side Lodge were visitors on Monday evening of Glendale Lodge I. O. O. F. The brothers were here in the interest of the district meeting to be held at Santa Monica, Nov. 21st. Glendale Lodge is getting up a new team for the third degree and initiatory work, and expect to have before long a fine new paraphernalia, even down to a new collar for the roat.

DEATHS.

Frank L. Crane, a young man of 21 years, died at the residence of his parents, 1333 Glendale avenue, Tuesday of last week, of tuberculosis and was buried on Thursday at Forest Lawn.

Mrs. Mary Irene Allen died November 10th at 428 S. Louise street. The deceased was 40 years old, the wife of H. F. Allen and a native of Ohio.

P. E. C.

The regular meeting of Chapter L was held at the home of Mrs. F. B. Albright, Wednesday, November 8. The morning was devoted to business, then came the luncheon and social hour which was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Hunchberger assisted Mrs. Albright as hostess. The program filled the hours of the afternoon.

HER FIRST PARTY.

Little Catherine Parker is five years old, and the birthday marking that happy fact was celebrated last Monday at Somerset Farm, where her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Sherer, had invited a number of other juveniles to meet and celebrate the unusual affair, and made proper arrangements under a spreading pepper tree and elsewhere to pass the time properly. During the early afternoon the children found amusement in various games, under the direction of able and experienced teachers, who once more imagined themselves at the rope-skipping age and shared the enjoyment of the youngsters. The birthday dinner, served at a long table under the pepper tree, was naturally the feature of the day. The young lady of five years departed herself with a charming sense of the importance of the occasion, not a single false step (you can have it in French) marring the conduct of that long-to-be-remembered spread under the great tree, where the table seemed to lack only the stuffed elephants to give an idea of abundance. Dr. D. W. Hunt, with his automobile, was one of the good angels of the day in carrying the visitors to and fro, and has a red letter place in their calendars. Mrs. C. E. Parker, the proud mother of the cause of the hilarity, was kept happily busy during the afternoon in showing the children "how." The grown-ups who were privileged to attend were Miss Carlotta Blaurock, Mrs. J. L. Whitaker, Miss Ina Whitaker, Mrs. J. C. Sherer, Mrs. C. E. Parker, Mr. T. R. Townsend and Mr. J. C. Sherer. The real guests were the following: Dorothy Hunt, Harriet Williams, Julia Robinson, Genie Robinson, Martha Eilers, Fern Bishop, Caroline Gommell, Carl Gommell and Edmund Parker.

EXTENSION OF LIGHTING SYSTEM.

The report made by Manager Lynch of the lighting department to the trustees Monday evening shows a very satisfactory condition of affairs in respect to the extension of the system to the newly annexed territory on the west. According to the terms of the contract between the city and L. C. Brand, after the municipality bought of Mr. Brand the portion of his plant in the limits of the original city boundaries, it was agreed that he would sell the remainder of the plant to the city as additional territory should be brought in. Recently Mr. Harry Lynch, for the city, and Mr. Arthur Campbell, representing Mr. Brand, got together and agreed upon extension of Mr. Brand's interests as follows:

West Glendale.....	$5,500
North Glendale.....	5,000
Tropic.....	4,264
Los Angeles.....	700
Total.....	$15,564

The portion previously bought by the city cost $23,000, and included 195 patrons, since increased to about 300. The brand plant at present is supplying 45 patrons, about 170 of whom are in the West Glendale section.

The amount agreed upon appears to be a very fair one, and it is a matter of congratulation to both parties interested that they have come to an agreement so promptly. The work of extending the system will not now be long delayed.

MRS. EUGENE FRANK "SURPRISED."

Last Monday being a birthday of Mrs. Eugene C. Frank's, the artistic and hospitable home of the Frank family on Eagle Rock Road, was the scene of a delightful social affair in the way of a surprise party planned and very happily carried through by Miss Alice Frank, who brought together a party of friends to celebrate her mother's natal day. The guests assembled in the pavilion, from whence they proceeded at the proper moment to the house, where the honored lady was properly "surprised" as they all were. The guests were entertained in various ways, enjoying in particular the very interesting display of curios and works of art brought by Mr. Frank from many countries, and the many fine paintings by himself. There was some excellent music, and at a late hour the doors of the spacious studio were thrown open, and a fine luncheon prepared by Miss Frank was the final feature of the evening's enjoyment.

LITERARY NOTES.

Miss Hazel Shackelford has been employed as assistant librarian. The books adopted for the course of study by the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club have been secured and placed on the shelves of the library. Special effort has been made to make the library reading room warm and comfortable during the evenings of the winter season. A long list of new books has been purchased, among them: "Aeroplane Boys" at Silver Fox Farm; "Awakening of Helena Ritchie," Betty Wales Decides, Calling of Dan Matthews, Carpet of Bagdad, The Challengers, Charlot of Fire, Clansman, The Common Law, Comrades, Conflict, El Estreñado, and The Harvester.

MR. PACK GOES INTO BUSINESS AT VAN NUYS.

Mr. Edgar W. Pack, who built up such a large business at the Glendale Lumber Yard, which he sold some months ago to Mr. Litchfield, has bought out the lumber yard at Van Nuys, taking charge there this week. Mr. and Mrs. Pack still retain their home in Glendale.

LOS ANGELES THEATRES

BURBANK THEATER.

Florence Stone in "The Chorus Lady."

The management of the Burbank theater has engaged that clever and widely liked leading actress, Florence Stone, to play the part of Patricia O'Brien, made famous by Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady," scheduled for Sunday afternoon, and the event promises to be one of the most important in the career of that popular playhouse.

When the proposition of releasing "The Chorus Lady" was first broached to Henry B. Harris he consented to a single week's presentation in Los Angeles, arguing that the ordinary stock company does not possess a leading woman capable of properly playing Miss Stahl's role. When Florence Stone's name was suggested to Mr. Harris as an actress eminently qualified in every way to succeed Miss Stahl, he instantly concurred in the idea—hence this fine actress will, temporarily, return to the local stage and delight her thousands of admirers with what is predicted will be an interpretation of the slantly-inclined Patricia O'Brien that will suffer nothing by comparison with the performance of its creator.

MAJESTIC THEATER.

Sam Bernard in "He Came from Milwaukee."

Commencing Sunday night at the Hamburger Majestic theater, Sam Bernard, the well-known comedian, will make his first bow to audiences in this city in his latest musical comedy, "He Came from Milwaukee," which was a great success in New York and is played for two engagements there at the Casino theater.

Although this is Mr. Bernard's first local appearance, this funmaker can be assured of a cordial reception as his fame has already reached here and as many theatergoers have already watched his comical antics in the East during the time he was a member of the famous Weber & Field company at their music hall on Broadway, and later as a star in "The Girl from Kays," "The Rich Man Hoggensheimer," "The Rollicking Girl," "Nearly a Hero," "The Girl and the Wizard" and his present play "He Came from Milwaukee."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ADVERTISING.

The write-up of Glendale to be given in a number of the Salt Lake Railway company's periodical, "The Arrowhead," to be issued in a short time, promises to be one that should be of great help to this section, as many thousands of that publication are distributed throughout the East. The Glendale article will cover six pages of the publication and will be well illustrated, including a large cut on the first page.

NEW REAL ESTATE CONCERNS.

Mr. J. Roman, formerly of Chicago, who came to Glendale a few months ago and bought the Parmenter Place on Central avenue, Tropic, has bought of his brother, J. F. Roman, the property on the southeast corner of Sixth and Brand and has fitted up the Mission furniture establishment there for a real estate office. His advertisement appears elsewhere.

Hazard and Crowell is a new realty firm doing business at 427 Brand boulevard.

On Wednesday Mrs. H. E. Bartlett and Dr. Jessie A. Russell, delegates of the Tuesday Afternoon Club left for Ventura where the District Federation of Women's Clubs is being held. Thursday morning, Mrs. Charles Shattuck, Mrs. Mary H. Gridley and Mrs. P. S. McNutt left for Ventura as delegates of the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles. This will be one of the most important federations held for some time. Forty-two women's clubs will be represented. Among other interesting events, a new president will be elected.

On Friday Mrs. Mary H. Gridley of Glendale delivered her lecture on "Artists of the Orient" before the Ethel Club of Pomona. Mrs. Gridley was called on to lecture in place of Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith who was unable to fulfill her engagement. On Thursday Mrs. Gridley lectured for the Twentieth Century Club of Eagle Rock and her name appears on the program of the State Mothers' Congress for a lecture on "Using Our Gifts" which will be delivered during the winter.

Mr. James B. Cohn, formerly of Oakland, has purchased the piece of property located on the southwest corner of Lomita avenue and Brand boulevard, which he will improve at once with a handsome two-story dwelling. Mr. Cohn and his family are temporarily located at 110 Orange avenue. Mr. Cohn is a brother of Mrs. E. W. Kinney and Mr. L. B. Cohn, Jr., of Seventh street.

A reporter of the NEWS encountered Mr. Samuel Dick in Los Angeles a few days ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dick have just returned from a tour through the East and appreciate the return to Los Angeles climate. Mr. Dick reports that in making the rounds of their circle of friends at the "Old Home," the attractiveness of chicken dinners completely faded away on account of frequent repetition.

GLENDAL, CAL., NOVEMBER 17, 1911

The city of Los Angeles during the month of October issued more building permits than any other city in the union. In the classic language of the street this is "going some."

Subscribers to the NEWS on route 5 who do not get their paper by Saturday at the latest, will favor the publisher by reporting the fact. The papers should reach them on Friday.

A man died from the effects of heat and two others were frozen to death all within 24 hours in Chicago last week. As long as human beings love variety, Chicago will be inhabited.

State Printer Shannon has resigned and the probability is that Friend W.
Richardson, who was Shannon's opponent at the primary election, will be appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr.
Richardson is an Oakland newspaper man and also president of the state press association. His appointment will be well received by his associates among the newspaper fraternity.
As for Shannon, there are but few to regret him aside from those who fattened on his favors.

Bishop, up in Inyo county, where they have a lot of the biggest things in California, from mountains down to crops, held a harvest festival last week extending over three days. One of its principal features was a mile-long parade led by the pioneers of the valley, a dozen of whom had been there since the '60's. Judging from the accounts in the local papers it was a surprisingly successful affair, but they do large things in that large country.

STARTING IN WELL.

While the NEWS does not favor imposing political duties upon women, we are glad to see that the majority of them seem to be taking up the subject with practical seriousness and by registering are preparing to perform the citizens' political duty to the state. A republican government is founded upon the theory that the citizen endowed with the franchise will perform his full duty at election time.
Practically all of the political evils of which we complain more or less justly are directly traceable to the fact that the average citizen does not realize the weight of his individual responsibility in this matter and leaves the real business of government to an active minority. The state of California (and other states) would never have been subject to the control of the railroad politicians had the mass of the voters exercised the power at the ballot box which was always theirs under the old dispensation as well as under the new. The real danger which confronts us in the near future is the probability that after the newness of the political game has lost its fascination, not only for the newly enfranchised but for the large body of long enfranchised citizens whose interest has been aroused by new methods, there will be a decline of interest and a relaxation of vigilance. This is made more probable by a very widespread idea that the reforms recently accomplished are due to laws, rather than to voters.

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

Great things can not be accomplished in a growing community without it. Nature may be very kind to a place, giving it environments that enhance its values in themselves and surrounding it with the natural friendly elements in rich abundance, but after all it is the people living therein who make the place what it is.
Public spirit means having a lively sense of one's responsibility to the community and a willingness at all times to give time and money to advance the general welfare. This general welfare of the community is something that should appeal to the good citizen as strongly as does the particular welfare of himself, his family, his lodge or his church. All of these are good but all of them are more or less selfish in the attention which they demand, while the general welfare of the community is something that has the breadth of patriotism to rest upon and has a right to demand of the citizen a portion of what he has in time, talents and property. In the average community there is only a minority of the people who are really public spirited; the most of them revolve in small circles of interest and do but little to repay to society the debt which every citizen owes to the community in which he lives.

Glendale needs more of this public spirit. Its people are intelligent and patriotic and a comparatively few of them have gone ahead and accomplished wonders, but the majority are wrapped up in their own affairs to the exclusion of active interest in the business of the community. The Improvement Association and the Chamber of Commerce are kept up by a comparatively few people, the great majority of the people taking no interest in one or the other. These civic bodies should receive general support and every family in the community should be represented in one or both of them.
It is almost impossible here to get a fair representation of citizens out to a meeting called for a general purpose, to take action in school matters for instance. On such occasions the aged excuses are given, one citizen has a lodge meeting to attend, another must go to a dance or a whist party and a few feel that their church duties are paramount, and so the matter affecting every citizen is neglected by nearly every citizen because he obeys first the call of his immediate interest. Public spirit listens always to the call of public duty and obeys at least a part of the time, but too large a portion of our people keep aloof from public matters and the progress of the community is not such as it should be. Nature and environment and circumstances outside of us have pushed us forward, and it devolves upon ourselves by putting our individual shoulders to the wheel to see that we do not slip back.

THE LIMITS OF CO-OPERATION.

Years ago when in the enthusiasm that is a happy part and parcel of the make-up of the young and the not-so-old, we believed in a number of things which with maturer years have been relegated to that shelf where the mummies of dead hopes repose, we had a belief in the possibility of co-operation among men in the practical affairs of life. Our theory was in a small way put to a practical test; it did not work.
Others were trying it then and have tried it since; it does not yet work.
Co-operation among any considerable number of people cannot be an ideal success except in a very limited way, in a field that is restricted by very definite metes and bounds. These fields are numerous, it is true, but always their limitations are very definite. In the broad and general sense in which the Socialists would have us accept the theory, it is a failure and the cause is not far to seek; it has its origin in our human selfishness.
We can and do in everyday affairs cooperate to accomplish together a certain piece of work, but these efforts succeed simply because the object is specified and restricted. The chances of success diminish as the field wid-ens. It is easy to understand why if a number of people should associate themselves together to co-operate in the general purposes and objects of life, the difficulties in the way would be increased not only by an increase of the objects to be attained, but also by the number participating. Suppose the object was to practice the communion of apostolic times, a common purse, a common table—everything in common. It would not be possible in this case for all participants to make an exact and equitable contribution to the common fund, for the contribution could not be measured in the coin of the realm merely, there must be taken into account the individual contributions of all participating in the pool, the exact measure of self-sacrifice behind the thing that is given. And so from the inequality of the capital put into the common fund, would come in the wisest distribution possible, an inequality of results which could not be followed by general satisfaction among the contributors.

The sense of injustice is one of the commonest attributes of our mortal kind, and as the best of our human endeavors is imperfect and falls short of the highest ideal, it seems very probable that rightly or wrongly this sense of injustice under the happiest conditions the race will ever attain, will rankle in the breasts of many to the end of time. It would seem if this is true, that it is the part of wisdom for the people of the present to co-operate as individuals, communities or even nations upon the matters of common interest as they arise from time to time, rather than to spend their time and waste their energies in a struggle to bring about ideal conditions by an overturning of systems

CORRESPONDENCE

Socialists Have their Inning—Replies to Father O'Neil.

Rev. James S. O'Neil, pastor.
I have read your article on Socialism in the NEWS of the 10th inst., and am surprised at the statements you make and grieved at the language you use.

With a fervent desire for the elevation and betterment of mankind I have studiously economized the leasure moments from a life of exacting toil and have reached the conclusion that the principles of Socialism applied to human government would be purifying, elevating and concluding the human race. These conclusions are as honest and sincere as it is possible for human conclusions to be, and it grieves me deeply to be branded through the public press as a "thief" and "traitor" because of these conclusions. If you are right I am wrong, but not intentionally so, and since you have seen fit to publicly make those harsh accusations, if you will more kindly and reasonably and christially convince me that those accusations are true, I will publicly renounce my allegiance to the principles of Socialism and apologize for my error.

For the purpose of giving you that opportunity I will procure the largest hall in Glendale (free of cost to you) if you will meet me in public discussion on the question at issue.

Assuming from your calling that you are a fair and charitable minded man and do not desire to do injustice to others because of honest differences of opinion, myself, and I am confident the public to whom you have addressed those accusations will anxiously await your early acceptance of the above offer.

If I am right, thy grace impart still in the right to stay,
If I am wrong, then teach me, please,
to find the better way.

Respectfully,
J. C. BELDIN.

Editor GLENDAL NEWS.

Dear Sir: I have been a close reader of your issue during the past four years and while much contained therein has not appealed to my way of thinking, the article which appeared over the signature of Rev. James S.
O'Neil in your last issue, caps the climax.

I would avoid anything unkind of anyone who honestly differs from me on any subject and puts up any sort of a plausible argument in an effort to defend his position, but when one who is looked upon by the community owing to the public position he holds, as an intelligent, educated person, a teacher, "called of God" to expound the Word and walk in His steps, hursly such epithets at Socialism as "Judge of ethics," "No interest in the capital and labor question," "Law defying," "Against government," "a traitor," "a Lucifer," "Advocates robbery," "Is against Christ and ignores God." Well, I will not encroach upon your space to answer such a mass of condensed ignorance as any ordinary, intelligent person, without consulting any authority or making the slightest investigation will know at a glance that the mentality of the teacher of the Christ life was in a most deplorable condition, at least when he wrote the above quoted absolute distortions of the truth. To anyone as densely ignorant as the Rev. James O'Neil of the science of socialism, which is making momentous strides as a world power toward absolute justice for all, I would refer them to any standard dictionary or any one of the more than twenty encyclopedias.

Yours for truth,

CHAPTER II. SOMETHING IS DONE.

IN the morning David Sheldon decided that he was worse. That he was appreciably weaker there was no doubt, and there were other symptoms that were unfavorable. He began his rounds looking for trouble. He wanted trouble. In full health the strained situation would have been serious enough; but as it was, himself growing helpless, something had to be done. The blacks were getting more sullen and defiant, and the appearance of the men the previous night on his veranda—one of the gravest of offences on Beranda—was ominous. Sooner or later they would get him, if he did not get them first, if he did not once again sear on their dark souls the flaming mastery of the white man.

He returned to the house disappointed. No opportunity had presented itself of making an example of insolence or insubordination—such as had occurred on every other day, since the sickness smote Beranda. The fact that none had been offended was in itself suspicious. They were growing crafty. It was one man against two hundred, and he was horribly afraid of his sickness overpowering him and leaving him at their mercy. He saw visions of the blacks taking charge of the plantation, looting the store, burning the buildings and escaping to Malaita. Also one gruesome vision he caught of his own head, sun dried and smoke cured, ornamenting the canoe house of a cannibal village. Either the Jesse would have to arrive or he would have to do something.

The bell had hardly rung, sending the laborers into the fields, when Sheldon had a visitor. Forty men, armed with spears, bows and arrows and war clubs, gathered outside the gate of the compound, but only one entered. They knew the law of Beranda, as every native knew the law of every white man's compound in all the thousand miles of the far flung Solomons. The one man who came up the path Sheldon recognized as Seelee, the chief of Balesuna village. The savage did not mount the steps, but stood beneath and talked to the white lord above.

Seelee was more intelligent than the average of his kind, but his intelligence only emphasized the lowliness of that kind. His eyes, close together and small, advertised cruelty and craftiness. A gee string and a cartridge belt were all the clothes he wore.

As he talked, or listened, he made grimaces like a monkey. He said yes by dropping his eyelids and thrusting his chin forward. He spoke with childish arrogance strangely at variance with the subservient position he occupied beneath the veranda. He, with his many followers, was lord and master of Balesuna village. But the white man, without followers, was lord and master of Beranda—ay, and on occasion, single handed, had made himself lord and master of Balesuna village as well. Seelee did not like to remember that episode. It had occurred in the course of learning the nature of white men and of learning to abominate them. He had once been guilty of sheltering three runaways from Beranda.

Unfortunately, he was ignorant of the ways of white men. This particular white man educated him by arriving at his grass house in the gray of dawn. In the first moment he had felt amused. He was so perfectly safe in the midst of his village. But the next moment, and before he could cry out, a pair of handcuffs on the white man's knuckles had landed on his mouth, knocking the cry of alarm back down his throat. Also, the white man's other fist had caught him under the ear and left him without further interest in what was happening. When he came to he found himself in the white man's whaleboat on the way to Beranda. When his tribe had returned the three runaways, he was given his freedom. And finally, the terrible white man had fined him and Balesuna village ten thousand coconuts. After that he had sheltered no more runaway Malaita men. Instead, he had gone into the business of catching them. It was safer. Besides, he was paid one case of tobacco per head. But if he ever got a chance at that white man, if he ever caught him sick or stood at his back when he stumbled and fell on a bush trail—well, there would be a head that would fetch a price in Malaita.

Sheldon was pleased with what Seelee told him. The seventh man of the last batch of runaways had been caught and was even then at the gate. He was brought in, heavily featured and defiant, his arms bound with coconut sennit, the dry blood still on his body from the struggle with his captors.

"Me savvee you good fella, Seelee," Sheldon said, as the chief rubbed down a quarter tumbler of raw trade gin. "Fella boy belong me you catch short time little bit. This fella boy strong fella too much. I give you fella one case tobacco—my word, one case tobacco. Then, you good fella along me, I give you three fathom calico, one fella knife big fella too much."

The tobacco and trade goods were brought from the store room by two house boys and turned over to the chief of Balesuna village, who accepted the additional reward with a non-committal grunt and went away down the path to his canoes. Under Sheldon's directions, the house boys handcuffed the prisoner, by hands and feet, around one of the pile supports of the house. At eleven o'clock, when the laborers came in from the field, Sheldon had them assembled in the compound before the veranda. Every able man was there, including those who were helping about the hospital. Even the women and the several pickaninies of the plantation were lined up with the rest, two deep—a border of naked savages a rifle under two hundred strong. Some wore penknives clasped on their kinky locks for safety. On the chest of one a china doorknob was suspended, on the chest of another the brass wheel of an alarm clock.

Facing them, clinging to the railing of the veranda for support, stood the sick white man. Any one of them could have knocked him over with the blow of a little finger. Despite his firearms, the gang could have rushed him and delivered that blow, when his head and the plantation would have been theirs. Hatred and murder and lust for revenge they possessed to overflowing. But one thing they lacked, the thing that he possessed—the flame of mastery that would not quench, that burned fiercely as ever in the disease wasted body.

"Narada! Billy!" Sheldon called sharply.

Two men slunk unwillingly forward and waited.

Sheldon gave the keys of the handcuffs to a house boy, who went under the house and loosed the prisoner.

"You fella Narada, you fella Billy, take um this fella boy along tree and make fast, hands high up," was Sheldon's command.

While this was being done one of the house boys fetched a heavy handed, heavy lashed whip. Sheldon began a speech.

"This fella Arunga, me cross along him too much. I no steal this fella Arunga. I no gammon. I say, 'All right, you come along me Beranda, work three fella year.' He say, 'All right, me come along you work three fella year.' He come. He catch plenty good fella kai kai (food) plenty good fella money. What name he run away? Me too much cross along him. I knock what name outa him fella. I pay Seelee, big fella master along Balesuna, one case tobacco catch that fella Arunga. All right. Arunga pay that fella case tobacco. Six pounds that fella Arunga pay. All same one year more that fella Arunga work Beranda. All right. Now be catch ten fella whip three times. You fella Billy catch whip, give that fella Arunga ten fella three times. All fella boys look see, all fella Marys (women) look see; bime bye, they like run away they think strong fella too much, no run away. Billy, strong fella too much ten fella three times."

The house boy extended the whip to him, but Billy did not take it. Sheldon waited quietly. The eyes of all the cannibals were fixed upon him in doubt and fear and eagerness. It was the moment of test, whereby the lone white man was to live or be lost.

"Ten fella three times, Billy," Sheldon said encouragingly, though there was a certain metallic rasp in his voice. Billy scowled, looked up and looked down, but did not move.

"Billy!"

Sheldon's voice exploded like a pistol shot. The savage startled physically. Grins overspread the grotesque features of the audience, and there was a sound of tittering.

"S'pose you like too much lash that fella Arunga, you take him fella Tulagi," Billy said. "One fella government agent make plenty lash. That um fella law. Me savvee um fella law."

It was the law, and Sheldon knew it. But he wanted to live this day and the next day and not to die waiting for the law to operate the next week or the week after.

"To much talk along you," he cried angrily. "What name, eh? What name?"

"Me savvee law," the savage repeated stubbornly.

"Astoa!"

Another man stepped forward in almost a sprightly way and glanced in

Its History and Romance

By John S. McGroarty

A book that you will sit up nights to read.

It is a one-volume story of the most wonderful state in the world told in the language of a poet. Every phrase is a song; every statement is a fact. It thrills and thrills and thrills.

Eloquent, yet concise; beautiful, yet solid; fascinating, yet instructive; it contains all that is essential and is a portrayal of California by the Golden State's most gifted and best loved writer.

Adapted to youth, middle-aged and elderly persons alike, it meets the universal demand of all for a single-volume history of California. It is very valuable to the student, not only for the knowledge it contains, but also as a study in word-painting and phraseology.

This work has been reviewed and passed upon by the most eminent historians and literary critics of California, to their complete satisfaction.

In one volume, thoroughly indexed, beautifully illustrated, splendidly bound and printed in good readable type, it is the most valuable book on the Holiday counter. Be sure that some member of your family receives it as a Christmas remembrance in order that it may have a place in your home.

Written by a Californian, published by a California house, it fulfills in every respect your choicest demand. Sold at all bookstores, or address solently up. Sheldon was selecting the worst characters for the lesson.

"You fella Astoa, you fella Narada, tie up that fella Billy alongside other fella same fella way."

"Strong fella tie," he cautioned them. "You fella Astoa take that fella whip. Plenty strong big fella too much ten fella three times. Savvee?"

"No," Astoa grunted.

Sheldon picked up the rifle that had leaned against the rail, and cocked it. "I know you, Astoa," he said calmly.

"You work along Queensland six years."

"Me fella missionary," the black interrupted with deliberate insolence.

"Queensland you stop fall one fella year. White fella master fool no hang you. You too much bad fella. Queensland you stop fall six months two fella time. Two fella time you steal. All right, you missionary. You savvee one fella prayer?"

"Yes, me savvee prayer," was the reply.

"All right, then you pray how, short time little bit. You say one fella prayer quick, then me kill you."

Sheldon held the rifle on him and waited. The black glanced around at glanced three he would drop him in his tracks. The black knew it, too. That was why Sheldon did not have to do it, for when he had counted one, Astoa reached out his hand and took the whip. And right well Astoa laid on the whip, angered at his fellows for not supporting him, and venting his anger with every stroke. From the veranda, Sheldon egged him on to strike with strength, till the two triced savages screamed and howled while the blood oozed down their backs. The lesson was being well written in red.

When the last of the gang, including the two howling culprits, had passed out through the compound gate, Sheldon sank down half fainting on his couch.

"You're a sick man," he groaned.

"A sick man."

"But you can sleep at ease tonight," he added, half an hour later.

"An Onlooker," comes out in the Interurban Sentinel of last week with the following: "In all your many years of life did you ever come in contact with a case like that which now confronts the people of this fair city, viz., That of Glendale striving to wed Tropic, after so many public rebuffs? Evidently this 'Onlooker,' has been a 'looker-on,' on only the side of Tropic. If he takes a 'lookin' at the entire question we feel certain that he will learn that Glendale has nothing whatever to do with the election except that the election was called by Glendale on the strength of a petition presented by strictly Tropic people. This annexation move was not started by Glendale and is not being carried on by Glendale, and the election was called only after the loud cry of Tropic that she wanted to go into Glendale."
